Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE Hauptmann case is revived in the East by publication of a grand juror's statement regarding what "Jafsic" Condon told that secret investigating body. The Bronx district attorney, aroused, calls the statement "absurd"—and petitions the supreme court for permission to reveal the grand jury transcript so that the entire state case won't be condemned in public opinion.

26,000 Thrown Out of Jobs as Strike Hits Auto Industry

Assistant Labor Secretary Takes Hand in Toledo Crisis

SOME PLANTS RUN Chevrolet Production Not Completely Stopped by Strikes

DETROIT, Mich.—(AP)—Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, brought labor leaders and executives of General Motors corporation together here Thursday to discuss a basis for negotiation in the Toledo (O.) Chevrolet plant strike, center of a situation which affected 26,000 workers in eight cities by strike or shutdown.

McGrady chief conciliator of the Department of Labor, discussed the situation with Francis J. Dillon, American Federation of Labor organizer, as soon as Dillon arrived from Washington. He went then to the office of William F. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, and later all were closed in conference at Knudsen's office.

Other Plants Closed Effects of the Toledo strike spread Thursday to Kansas City and St. Louis as Chevrolet and Fisher Body company plants closed in each city for lack of parts. Transfusion assemblies appeared the main shortage, since the Toledo plant manufactured a heavy percentage of these for all Chevrolet units.

Coincident with the conference in Detroit, M. E. Coyle, president of the Chevrolet Company, announced at Flint, Mich., that the company's plant at Flint, Saginaw and Bay City would remain open regardless of the situation in units elsewhere.

Strikers Determined At Toledo, Fred Schwake, business agent of the United Automobile Workers' Federal Union, said the plant of the Motors Products company at Muncie, Ind., is being equipped to produce Chevrolet transmissions, and declared the strikers would carry their fight there if the plans were carried out. A group of pickets were reported to have moved to Muncie to observe the situation.

Schwake said members of the Automobile Workers' Union in Warner Gear Company at Muncie had promised to call a strike if Chevrolet parts were included in that plant's schedule. From Cleveland came a report that several basic industries concerns had received stop orders for Chevrolet parts. The magazine Steel estimates the steel industry alone would lose approximately 9 per cent of its present output by a complete halt of Chevrolet production.

While having no relation to the general situation, 37 diners of 62 employed by Chrysler Corporation plants here were on strike Thursday for 10 cents an hour pay increase. The men are specialized workers, and correct body errors on the assembly line.

It is the special handicap of the liberal attitude that it must be intelligent or it is helpless. Subject for debate: Would you rather drown out or dry up and blow away?

The bandits, clad in overalls, were reported seen driving toward Van Buren.

They entered the bank through a rear window on the second floor balcony, tied up employees, and forced the head teller to open the safe.

The switchboard operator called officers, who arrived shortly after the robbers fled.

State Appointee Signs Arson Bond

Welfare Commission Member Endorses $10,000 in Hotel Case

POCAHONTAS, Ark.—(AP)—Lige Dams, Jr., waived preliminary hearing Friday on charges in connection with the Hotel Randolph fire. He was returned here from Corning with John K. Gibson and Pauline Gearhart, also held in the investigation.

Bond for Smith

POCAHONTAS, Ark.—Revealing that John K. Gibson, Lawrence county political leader, is in jail at Corning, Clay county, Sheriff John T. Thompson said Thursday night that he had hurried Gibson out of town because he did not want to have Gibson and H. E. Smith in the same jail where they might communicate with each other.

Smith, manager of the Lawrence hotel at Walnut Ridge, was released on $10,000 bond Thursday night. He is charged with having participated in a conspiracy that resulted in the burning of the Randolph hotel here Sunday.

The theory of officers here is that Smith believed that, with the hotel out of the way, his own hotel would enjoy an increased patronage.

Sheriff Thompson said that Gibson is heavily interested financially in the Lawrence hotel at Walnut Ridge.

Those who qualified as Smith's bondsmen were C. L. Bottoms, Mrs. W. R. Lane and James L. Bland, all of Walnut Ridge. Each qualified for $10,000. Mrs. Lane owns the Lawrence hotel building at Walnut Ridge and a member of the State Welfare Commission.

Gibson is held strictly incommunicado at Corning. On orders of Sheriff Thompson no one is allowed to talk to him.

Sheriff Thompson declared that he is not through with his investigation yet and intimated that further sensational developments are possible.

Gibson was arrested at Walnut Ridge late Wednesday afternoon after friends at Walnut Ridge had arranged for his release on a $10,000 corpus writ. He was arraigned before Justice Rogers, his bond fixed at $10,000 and he was immediately hurried to Corning.

10 Die in Arkansas Storms; 60 Injured

Heavy Rain Sweeps State—Lightning Kills Texarkana Negro

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Five additional fatalities were reported in Mississippi county Friday with an estimated 50 injured in the wake of a wind and electrical storm which left 5 known dead, 10 injured, and heavy property loss over Arkansas.

5 Known Dead, arlier

LITTLE ROCK.—Five persons were killed, 11 were injured and heavy property loss resulted as a severe storm of wind, rain and electricity struck Arkansas Thursday.

Two of the dead were killed by lightning and it is feared that two others may die from injuries suffered in this manner. Four were injured less seriously by bolts.

Mrs. Mary H. Fields, 58, of Dermott and two small negro children living in Mississippi county, died as the result of injuries suffered when wind demolished their homes.

John Henry Faulk, negro farm boy, was killed when he was struck by lightning while he was plowing in a field near Texarkana. The mule with which he was plowing also was killed. The boy's clothing was set on fire.

Georgia Turner, negro woman, was killed when lightning struck her home north of Pine Bluff.

Six persons were injured when lightning struck the home of J. J. Reeves in Izard county, near Stella. Two of the victims may die. The house was demolished.

Five residents of Mississippi county were in the hospital at Blytheville as the result of injuries suffered in the windstorm. None was considered in a serious condition.

Harrisburg also reported that the windstorm caused considerable damage in that section of Poinsett county.

At Joplin, Mo., four houses were wrecked and many other buildings damaged by a tornado.

Camden reported that three inches of rain fell during a cloudburst accompanied by an electrical storm Thursday afternoon.

Labor Federation Asks Extension of Two Years on NRA

Executive Council A. F. of L. in Conference With Roosevelt

DEBATE ON BONUS

Senate Observers Believe Compromise Will Eventually Win

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A two-year extension of the NRA was urged Friday by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor at a conference with President Roosevelt. Speaker Byrnes forecast that the house would approve NRA extension without difficulty.

The debate on the bonus issue continued in the senate, where three votes were in prospect on the various plans. Compromise supporters believed they will win.

Battle Over Bonus

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Opening a three-cornered battle royal over the bonus, senate proponents of the inflationary Patman and compromise Harrison payments plans Thursday waved arms and shouted.

Advocates of the Vinson bill struck softer blows, but some observers estimated a swing in that direction. Chairman Harrison of the Finance Committee predicted that President Roosevelt would sign his bill, containing his measure would cost $1,000,000,000 less than the cash payment proposals.

Senator Long, Democrat, Louisiana. However, asserted the president would sign the Patman bill, passed by the house.

"The president ain't agoin' to veto the Patman bill," he shouted. "How do I know? Not from any word from the president. He seldom sends me any word. But I know because the president is a good politician. I am a politician and a candidate for re-election. He won't veto the bonus."

Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, said the Patman bill, providing for payment of the certificates in new currency, was the only one of the three measures that would cash the bonus in full at once and argued for it as a means of raising the price level and restoring prosperity.

A veteran, Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, offered without debate the American Legion-backed Vinson bill, providing for full payment in existing currency.

Working hard for the Vinson bill in the lobbies outside the senate chamber was John Thomas Taylor, the Legion's veteran legislative counsel. He hastened out of one of the anterooms as Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, bonus foe, protested his presence and threatened to take it up in the senate.

"I thought this was for newspapermen," Couzens said angrily. Couzens did not mention Taylor by name, but the Legion representative left hurriedly. The Michigan senator then indicated he would not carry the matter further.

Day and McKean Not Dance Killers

Sheridan Slayings Attributed to Roving Bandits—Not Convicts

SHERIDAN, Ark.—(AP)—Sheriff Clark said Friday that the two desperadoes who killed two men and wounded two others at a rural dance went to camp six miles from the scene and remained there until Thursday afternoon.

Clark believes the two were robbers who have been operating in this vicinity.

Not Day and McKean SHERIDAN, Ark.—(AP)—Grant county officers Thursday night pressed a search for two unidentified men who shot up a rural dance hall, killing two persons and wounding two others, but caused the party broke up too soon to suit them.

The shooting followed an announcement from the dance hall operator, that the ball was over, and that another would be held next Wednesday night.

"If the orchestra don't play another piece," one of the dissatisfied guests was quoted as saying, "there won't be any dance next Wednesday night."

He and his companion drew pistols and opened fire, killing Alva Appaling, 39, and wounding W. E. Hudson, 49, the dance hall operator. Homer Wright, farmer, was shot and wounded when he and others gave chase to the fleeing pair, who later returned to the hall and shot and killed W. N. Pierce, 49, farmer.

Sheriff Paul Clark at first expressed the opinion the slayers were Sam Day and Rubie McKean, escaped convicts, but he later said he believed they were two robbers operating in this vicinity recently.

His later opinion, he said, was based on information given him by a boy, "Booger" Litsey, who said he rode to the dance with the desperadoes. Clark also said Walter Flynn reported he noted the license number of an automobile being filled with gasoline prior to the shooting, and that it was the same car driven off by the slayers.

Willie Haywood Takes Kidnaping Report to Police

Daughter, 14, Son, 12, Alleged Missing With Brother-in-Law

ASK FEDERAL AID

Children Last Seen When Brother-in-Law Started for Hope

Willie Haywood, farmer of near Schooley's store, reported to officers here Friday that his two children had been kidnaped.

Haywood told authorities that a daughter Vera, 14, and a son, Norman, 12, had been missing since Wednesday.

La. Anthony, 37, a brother-in-law of Haywood, was also reported missing. Haywood expressed belief that his two children were forced to accompany Anthony in an alleged flight from Hope to Oklahoma City where Anthony is known.

The father later appeared at The Star and asked that the story be published in an effort to locate them.

Case for Sheriff Police Chief John W. Ridgill said Friday morning that he would turn the case over to Sheriff Jim Bearden. Chief Ridgill added that Department of Justice agents at Oklahoma City and Springfield, Mo., would probably be asked to be on the lookout for Anthony.

Anthony is known at both places, and officers here expressed the opinion that he would show up at one city or the other soon.

Sheriff Bearden was out of Hope Friday, and it could not be learned what steps he would take.

Father's Statement The father of the missing boy and girl said:

"Anthony and my two children left home about 8:30 a. m. Wednesday. They were to make a trip to Hope. I have not seen or heard of them since. "Anthony came here about two weeks ago from Oklahoma City. He was to have spent a few days with us and then return.

"I don't know whether they left Hope by foot, automobile or train. I have been unable to get any trace of them."

Haywood said that he had resided near Schooley's store, northeast of Hope, for about a year, moving there from near Patmos where he had been engaged in farming about 13 years.

Deficit Is Billion Below Prediction

Total of 3 Billion Compares With Nearly 5 Billion Estimated

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A deficit ranging steadily toward the $3,000,000,000 mark for the first 10 months of the fiscal year, accompanied by the apparent paradox of a decrease of $149,000,000 in the public debt during April, was shown Thursday in Treasury figures.

Observers noted that with only two months more left of the fiscal year an unprecedented burst of spending would be needed to bring the deficit figure to the $4,869,000,000 estimated by Mr. Roosevelt.

The April slash in the public debt, although unusual, was easily accounted for, however, by the fact that the government has been paying out cash to redeem a sizeable block of Liberty bonds and maturing short term obligations instead of borrowing more money to meet them. The cash has come from the general fund.

Thus, April's public debt fell from $28,817,000,000 to $28,668,000,000. Meanwhile, the balance in the general fund, from which came the cash, dropped $511,000,000. It was drawn upon, too, for current expenditures.

Markets

New Orleans NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—A definite trend was lacking at start of trading here Friday on the cotton market with old crop months unchanged to two points lower while new positions were one to four points higher.

Strength in the new crop futures was attributed to the uncertainty regarding the coming yield, both as to its size and the loan policy of the government.

May was unchanged at 11.59 at the first call but July was two points lower at 11.71. October was up a point at 11.26. December up three points at 11.42 and January up one at 11.45.

New York NEW YORK.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened quiet but steady, two to four higher on spot house and trade buying with offers light. May 11.77; July 11.79; October 11.42; December 11.46; January 11.51; March 11.57.

Kidney Stones Need More Than Removal

Although doctors are divided over the cause of kidney stones, they're agreed about one thing—that mere removal of the stones is not enough to cure the malady.

To prevent other stones from forming, even after removal, every tiny piece of gravel that may be present must be cleaned out, because these may develop into larger stones.

Furthermore, if infection is present, that must be cleaned up before the operation can be regarded as complete. If there are any obstructions in the urinary tract of kinks of various kinds, these should be straightened out, and any other constricting points should be eliminated.

Stones in the kidney can be discovered easily by use of the X-ray, after which surgery can be employed.

After an operation of this kind, the doctor should study the diet of his patient and arrange for suitable foods, with plenty of Vitamin A, that will help prevent recurrence of this ailment.

This is the generally accepted procedure in the case of kidney stones, though the medical profession is divided over causes of the disease.

One group of investigators believes that the stones are the result of infections and that the invading organisms are the center around which the stones form.

Another group is convinced that stones form because there are obstructions to the free flow of fluid from the kidney and that obstructions of the passages at any point set up conditions in which infection is simple and formation of stone likely.

A number of investigators feel that errors of diet are primarily responsible, particularly a deficiency of vitamin A. The idea is that this deficiency brings about a weakness in the tissues lining the paths in the urinary tract, and that portion of tissue which should off form the center for the stones.

There are others who believe that the stones are caused by abnormal products developed in the excretory system from the kidney. Some feel that formation of stones in the kidney is related to disturbances of the actions of various glands which are involved in the manner in which the body takes care of calcium and phosphorus in the diet.

This is particularly true of the parathyroid gland. Overaction of this gland will withdraw calcium from the bones. Underaction leads to a wrong use of calcium by the body.

Calls Mexico Real Magnet

Mexico is already within reach of the American motorist. It will be much more accessible in the near future, when present road-building programs are finished; and it is about as interesting a land for the tourist to explore as any on earth.

So say Leone Moats and Alice Leone Moats in their charming guidebook, "Off to Mexico."

You might call this book a Baedeker with its coat off. It is packed with the needed information—where good hotels can be found, where the water is safe to drink, what roads are passable, what ones are blocked, and so on—but it is delightfully informal and chatty discursive in a way that makes it very fine reading.

The authors tell you what Mexico's chief "sights" are and how to get at them. They include just enough Mexican history to whet your appetite. All in all, their book is apt to make you want to rush off below the Rio Grande tomorrow morning.

Published by Scribner's, it sells for $1.75.

A book that should have been mentioned earlier is "Turkey in the Straw," a collection of American ballads by Mackinlay Kantor. Mr. Kantor has caught the rhythm of early American verse admirably, and some of his Civil War ballads are exceedingly well done.

In some ways he's a better poet than novelist—and his novels are good too. Coward-McCann offers this book

BEHOLD HERE TODAY

MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRINGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAPPE, a stranger, offers to help her. She sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunette, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets HAPPE's son, NORMAN; his stepson, ROBERT CAISE; MRS. HAPPE, DICK GENTRY, HAPPE's partner; VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. HAPPE's maid.

In HAPPE's home Millicent sees the mysterious "woman in black" whom she believes has some connection with Dringold's death.

The chauffeur is found dead. Later HAPPE is kidnapped. Millicent and Norman learn the car driven by the woman in black belongs to PHYLLIS FAULCONER. They go to her apartment, find the missing suitcase of books showing a shortage of $200,000 in Gentry's accounts.

Millicent and Norman leave and later return. Norman goes in to find out when he does not recognize Millicent. The place is in wild disorder. A policeman arrives. Millicent escapes.

She goes to a nearby garage, asks to see Phyllis Faulconer's car and goes to the second floor. She gets in the car and someone grabs her arm.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIV

MILICENT'S scream was swallowed up in the vast emptiness of the dark concrete room with its parked automobiles, gloomy, sinister and silent, as sole witness to that which was taking place.

The man's hand that had clutched her shoulder held her in a vice-like grip. She screamed again, clawed at the man's wrist. As well have tried to claw at one of the concrete supports of the big garage.

She tried to bite but could not get her teeth around far enough to catch the wrist. She felt the man's other hand clamp about her own wrist, suddenly felt the bite of steel, and heard the ominous click of handcuffs.

"You're under arrest, Phyllis Faulconer," a man's voice said. "and anything you say will be used against you."

Half an hour before the sound of the voice would have filled Millicent with dread. Now she gave a quick gasp of relief. The voice was that of Detective Buchanan.

She whirled around in the seat. "You!" she exclaimed.

Detective Buchanan moved with deft skill, plucked her other wrist, snapped the other wristlet of steel about it.

"It happens," he said, "that I'm Detective Buchanan from headquarters. I've been trailing you for some little time. Let's have a look at you and see if you're the same person I think you are."

Her eyes were blinded by the sudden glitter of a flashlight. She heard Buchanan's exclamation. "Good heavens!" he said. "So you're Phyllis Faulconer!"

"No I'm not."

HE laughed sarcastically and said, "You can do a lot of explaining, young lady, before you talk yourself out of this mess. I know for quite a while that Phyllis Faulconer must be someone who had access to the Happe residence, but I admit that you certainly had me fooled. That trick of yours of giving Sergeant Mahoney the license number of your own automobile was one of the cleverest dodges I have ever known. In all my years of trailing crooks, you certainly pulled a fast one."

"I suppose you thought I couldn't remember the license number of the automobile, but that's where he fooled you. He's trained himself to remember license numbers. Later on he pretended that he'd only partially remembered the number, transposing the figures and asking questions of everyone so that the real owner would figure he was hot on the trail and try to dispose of the automobile or conceal it somewhere."

"When he figured he had the trap sufficiently baited he made arrangements with the garage man to say nothing, but let me watch the car."

"No, no," she said. "You're making a mistake. I swear I'm not Phyllis Faulconer. I'm trying to tell Miss Faulconer. I found out where she lives. I figured she must keep her car here. I made inquiries downstairs. You can prove it by the night man."

"I'm sorry," he told her, "that I can't believe you. Phyllis Faulconer is a very mysterious person. She keeps her car here and maintains an apartment at 3229 Baronne avenue. Once or twice a month she takes her car out. No one seems to know very much about her or what she looks like."

"But I'm not Phyllis Faulconer. I can prove it to you. I tell you I'm trying to tell her, and Norman Happe has disappeared, and

"What's that?" he asked sharply. "Norman Happe," she said. "He's disappeared."

"Just what do you mean by that?"

HE went up to try to cross-question Phyllis Faulconer in her apartment. I was with him—that is, I waited outside in the taxicab. I can take you to the cab driver and prove it. And something happened to Norman. The apartment was in an awful mess. There had been a fight and there were blood stains."

"Blood stains?" he asked.

"Yes," she said. "The detective gave a low whistle and said, 'You're telling me news. It's true.'"

"But it is true. I can prove it—every word of it. The cab driver is still waiting in front of the apartment house."

"Wait a minute," Buchanan said slowly. "Norman Happe went to the apartment. You knew he was going. Is that right?"

"Yes, of course, I went with him."

"Yes, I believe you told me that before. And you waited down in the taxicab while he went up to the apartment. Is that right?"

"Yes," she said.

He laughed significantly and said, "That simply clinches the case against you. You're clever enough to have arranged it just that way while you telephoned your accomplices to take care of Norman when he came to the apartment."

Millicent lost her temper. "As a detective," she said, "you're a frost! I love Norman Happe. I tell you I love him! I love the ground he walks on. I love every hair of his head! If you want to know, Norman Happe asked me to marry him tonight and I was never so happy in my life."

There was sudden doubt in Detective Buchanan's voice. "Asked you to marry him?" he inquired.

"Yes."

DETECTIVE BUCHANAN remained silent for a moment while he seemed to be deliberating. Suddenly the beam of the flashlight moved down to the purse which lay in Millicent's lap.

"I'm just going to check up on this story," he said.

"Go ahead," she told him. He took the purse in his hands, snapped open the catch, let the beam of the flashlight play upon its contents while he said mystifyingly, "Phyllis Faulconer—I wonder if your story is true. I hope it is. I wanted to believe you. I would have sworn that it was another who..."

He took a folded paper from her purse.

"What's this?" he asked. Her eyes, blinded by the flash light, failed to recognize the paper. She saw only the glimmer of the light from a folded square of paper. "I don't know what it is," she said.

He unfolded the paper and she would have given much to have recalled her words, for suddenly she recognized it.

At that moment Detective Buchanan gave a low, guttural laugh. "Oh," he said, "so you don't recognize it, eh?"

She made some stammering attempt at speech, but Buchanan interrupted her reading in a slow, mocking tone of voice the content of the letter that she had taken from Phyllis Faulconer's apartment.

When she had first seen that letter she hadn't appreciated how utterly damning it would be if found in her possession. Now as she heard Buchanan's voice making a damning accusation of every sentence, a black despair engulfed her.

"YOU'VE GOT TO DITCH THE CAR, SERGEANT MAHONEY HAS THE LICENSE NUMBER. HE'S GOT IT TWICED BUT IT WON'T BE LONG UNTIL HE GETS THE RIGHT NUMBER. I TRIED TO GET A CHANCE TO TALK WITH YOU BUT THEY WERE WATCHING ME TOO CLOSELY AND I DON'T WANT THEM TO SUSPECT YOU SO FAR YOU'RE ABSOLUTELY UNDER SUSPICION."

"NO ONE SUSPECTS ANYTHING UNLESS IT'S THE GIRL. I'M GOING TO TAKE CARE OF HER WHAT'S MORE. I'M GOING TO GET THAT NOTEBOOK—THE ONE THAT CONTAINS DRINGOLD'S CONFESSION. THAT WILL CLEAN UP THE LAST PIECE OF EVIDENCE. YOU DITCH THE CAR. LEAVE THE GIRL TO ME—BOB."

Governor Praises Mississippi Tax

Mike Conner Makes Straightforward Statement on Sales Levy

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Gov. Senett Conner, discussing the sales tax in Mississippi on its third anniversary Thursday said there was "nothing free in government" and that the "people always must pay."

He said the sales tax, which he imposed upon becoming governor, had produced $9,140,219.26 to date and had saved the state $100,000.

"A public official never derives any pleasure or popularity from imposing a tax on the people," he said. "He would much prefer to take off all the taxes."

"Candidates who tell the people about the many free things they are going to give them should be required to tell how they are going to impose the taxes to pay for these gifts. There is nothing free in government. The people must pay and they are lucky if they don't have to pay more than once for what they get."

He said that when he took office he found state obligations totaling $7,300,000 in default and $5,250,000 in other obligations coming due.

Never a word is said
But it trembles in the air,
And the faint voice is sped,
In vibrant every where;
And perhaps far off in eternal years
The echo may ring upon our ears.
Never are kind acts done
To wipe the weeping eyes,
But like the flashes of the sun
They signal to the skies;
And up above, the angels bend
How we have helped the sinner need.
There is no end to the sky,
And the stars are everywhere,
And time is eternity,
And here is over there;
For the common deeds of the common day
Are ringing bells in the far away.

Aim of Church Is to Spread Word

Evangelist Points to King Asa as Example of Good Believer

Evangelist Georgia Lewis preached at the Tabernacle Thursday night appropriating the promises God made to King Asa, in II Chron. 15, to us today. She said:

"Asa was one of the good kings of Judah. In the preceding chapter an account is given of his victory over the king of Ethiopia. With a very much smaller army God has given him the victory because he prayed and trusted in God, saying 'It is nothing with thee to help, whether with many or with them that have no power.' Asa might have gotten the big head and taken some of the glory to himself, the God sent his prophet Azariah to warn him, saying 'The Lord is with you while ye be with him; and if ye seek him, he will be found of you; but if ye forsake him, he will forsake you.' What a blessing that God had His man for the occasion, a man upon whom 'The Spirit of God came.' Without the Spirit of God we only have the intellect. The best equipped prophet today is the one that has the Spirit of God resting on him.

"The Church of God is in the world today, not to discuss politics, nor for scientific purposes, nor for purely educational purposes but to bring God's message to the people. When a church fails in this respect it had better close its doors.

"This prophet had a threefold message to deliver. An assurance, a promise and a warning. The assurance: 'Asa, the Lord is with you while you are with him.' The promise: 'If you seek him he will be found of you.' The warning: 'But if you forsake him, he will forsake you.' Does it pay us to walk with him? Surely this message will apply to us today.

"Nations must reap what they sow as well as individuals. If our President would call this nation to prayer again we would humble ourselves before God. I believe he would save us from our troubles.

"God commanded Asa to be strong. He took courage and he destroyed the idols, erecting again the Altar of God. It was not so easy for Asa to follow God's leading. His own mother was a worshiper of idols. It takes a woman, a man, with a real backbone today, to take a stand for God. There will be plenty of opposition, but we like Asa may take courage. It is required of a steward that a man be found faithful. The people of Judah me together and made a covenant to seek the Lord with all their hearts. God is looking for people today that will seek him with all their heart, all their soul, and all their strength. Under the Pasha made that day, those who would not seek the Lord were put to death. Today it is up to the individual, we have to leave them to God. If people do not seek him now, God will deal with them in His day.

"Did you ever come to God and he turned you away? Friend He is not that kind of a God. God calls us to seek him with all our hearts. He is demanding our strength. Be strong because your work shall be rewarded."

MANILA, P. I., (AP)—Sixty-five persons were reported slain in two battles growing out of bitter and widespread uprisings in the provinces Friday against the projected new commonwealth government system.

The suddenness and extent of the insurgent movement stunned authorities. Capt. Jose Guido of the Constabulary Intelligence reported to the governor general's office that the situation was "very grave." He suggested that Acting Gov. Gen. Joseph R. Hayden fly back to Manila from a mountain province where he has been on an inspection tour.

Two bloody battles were fought between constabulary detachments and extremists called Sakdalists in Laguna province south of here. The constabulary reported more than 60 dead as the result of the principal fight at Cahuyao, Laguna.

Previously five persons were slain in a clash between Sakdalists and constabulary men at Santa Rosa, Laguna. One constabulary soldier was reported among the dead and three others were wounded.

Seven members of the Sakdal society accused of plotting to assassinate Manuel Quezon, president of the insular Senate and the foremost candidate for the commonwealth presidency, are being prosecuted here on sedition charges.

The Sakdalists recently charged before acting Gov. Gen. Joseph R. Hayden that they were being "threatened with prosecution for sedition" if they voted against ratification of the commonwealth constitution in the plebiscite to be held May 14.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Text: Luke 15:11-24
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 5.
By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Our lesson deals with three things that have been very real all through human history.

The reality of sin needs very little emphasis. We see the evidences of it on every hand, and the records of the past speak chiefly of what we find in our own age.

Here is this tragic record of the prodigal son, leaving a good home and a kind father, going out into life to have his fling, to waste himself and his substance. It is the old, familiar story of sin and the allurements of sin that turn out to be a snare and a trap.

In this, also, the story is not old. It is the story of what is happening in many lives today.

If that were the whole story, life indeed would be dark and dismal. But the worth of our study of Sunday school lessons, and of our teaching of them, is found in the fact that there is a way out of the abyss of sin.

Man may rise from his mistakes and errors. He may still be the bird with the broken pinion, never able to soar as high again; for it is true that though sins be forgiven they often leave their indelible marks and their effects.

But even broken by sin in body and soul, man may find a new peace with God and the beauty and glory of a new life.

How can this be found? The one gateway to it is repentance. When the prodigal son came to himself and turned from his sin, he had made the first step toward the new life. In coming to himself he was on the way to his father's house, and on the way to God.

Sin is always a departure from one's self and from one's best. Repentance is the way of return to oneself as well as to God.

Repentance is the first great evidence of faith. It is not the full flowering of faith, though it is something more than despair and disgust with sin.

Repentance is disgust with sin in effective action. It is the strength of faith turning that instantaneously his repentance. Repentance is the beginning of what faith fulfills in man, in the salvation of man from sin.

Paul said, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth."

It is the nature and quality of the Gospel that it is defined by its fruits. It is not a theory; it is not even just a beautiful teaching; it is an effective power of God upon which man may lay hold and under which they may find their lives transformed.

Would God that in every story of prodigal sons there might be as happy an ending as in the great parable of an ending as in the great parable of power is working in the world today as then, and those who have wandered far away may return and find a father's grace.

If human fathers fail, there is no failure with the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ and Our Father.

Barker and Karpis Named Kidnapers

Pal's Confession Introduced at Bremer Kidnaping Trial

ST. PAUL, Minn., (AP)—A statement by a confessed associate, introduced by the government Thursday in the trial of Edward G. Bremer's alleged kidnapers, named Arthur (Doc) Barker and James Earl Ray (Doc) Karpis as two of the actual abductors.

The confession by Harold Alderton, in whose Bensenville (Ill.) home, the banker was held by the gang for 21 days, was read to the jury by United States District Attorney George Sullivan.

It linked with the crime in addition to Barker, a defendant and Karpis, current public enemy No. 1, Byron Bolton who pleaded guilty when the trial opened April 15; Elmer Farmer, Bensenville tavern keeper, a defendant; William Weaver and Fred Campbell, both at large, and Fred Goetz alias George Ziegler, killed by gangsters in Chicago after the Bremer kidnaping.

Before the statement was introduced, Wynona Nurdette, 21-year-old "moll," whose associations with the alleged kidnapers resulted in a sentence to Milan (Mich.) prison farm, testified for the government that several of the accused left their usual St. Paul haunts, on January 17, 1934, the day of the abduction.
